

The Cosmic Virtual Vending Machine

Part 1

We all have one.
No choice.
They are all different, though.
We are all unique and different no matter how conditioned we are.
There is still a speck of us in us.
Our genetics are still there, deep down under the surface.
And on the surface, too.
I have blue eyes. I'm 5 feet tall in the morning.
No choice.
I provoke.
No choice.
I'm writing what I'm writing.
No choice.

Our chemistry is unique.
Our genetics is unique.
Many of us do survive conditioning.
And we stay safe and not allow our uniqueness to shine when we feel the tiniest bit threatened.

We may know things.
We do think.
We may understand things.
We may believe things.
We do make up things all the time.
That's fun. That's what humans do.

But then we 'believe' or 'know' or 'think' that what we think or know or believe is true.
WE REALLY BELIEVE THAT WHAT WE THINK IS TRUE!
How could we know differently?
People ask "What do you think about that?"
We're trained to make things up.
It can be great fun.
And/or great pressure.

None of us have a choice. We think.
Almost none of us can 'not' think.

Have your ever tried to not think?
How long did that last?
Really last? (be honest)
We are designed to think. We have brains that allow us to think. No choice.
Do you have any control of your thinking?
Did you order your brain in a cosmic vending machine?
Stick a coin in, select a design and out it pops?

Voila! You get to choose how you think!
Really?

The 'mechanics of the maia' describes the science of how frequencies work.
The 'mechanics of the maia' controls everything...how we think, breathe, know, decide, move, stay put...every thing.

We try using the cosmic virtual vending machine to control this.
We do it all the time.
We think we have control.
We think we can have control.
We think our intentions create our reality, our future, our happiness.
We know we can be happy if we just try.
If we just choose it in the cosmic vending machine.
If we can just understand something.
If we can just order it up in the virtual vending machine that is our minds.
If we're good enough.
If we pray enough.
If we pray.
If we chant.
If we just.....
